It's time to start focusing on growing new markets instead of building payments infrastructure

Your global success depends on growing new markets rapidly while decreasing cart abandonment rates. One of the top reasons shoppers don't convert on your site or in your app is lack of local payment options. The challenge when increasing local payment options for customers is implementing it without adding vast amounts of new internal payments infrastructure and administrative burden. Too often well-intentioned expansion efforts are derailed by various local compliance regulations, lack of engineering resources, and managing additional reconciliation, reporting and FX processes within your global teams.

Rapyd Collect translates the complexities of payments, so your business can speak to everyone

Rapyd Collect is a global payment acceptance platform that helps businesses reach billions of consumers who prefer to transact with local payment methods such as ewallets, local cards, bank transfers and even cash. Now you can begin accepting 900+ payment methods globally while surrounding your global acceptance strategy with business and back office tools that help lower the barriers of doing business around the globe.
